MODEST LAND CLAIM.

Mrs. Ward of Los Angeles, California, has been to see her relations in Victoria about a little bit of property in Ireland, which has been in chancery for fifty years, and on which the Wards are said to have a clear claim. The property is in the county Antrim, and is of the trifling value of one hundred and eighty millions. O'Neill—"red O'Neill"—was the original owner, and the way he came by the kuleana is just a bit sensational. There were two chappies who wanted the potato patch, and King Henry II., who died some time ago, before California was admitted, started the suitors on a go-as-you-please race from Windsor Castle for the coveted estate. He who first reached the ground would secure it, to have and to hold, for him, his heirs and assigns, forever—deeds at the expense of J. F. Morgan, auctioneer. The rush that took place for Oklahoma lots was more numerous but not more eager than this, which can only be compared to the scramble that is going to take place for that historic ground up Nuuanu valley where Kaiama, the high chief, was done to death while discounting the valor of Captain Bad, N.G.H., nearly a century in advance. Well, to get back to this race for some of the precious soil made tabu to snakes and toads forever by Saint Patrick. "Red" O'Neill's rival, whose name, doubtless because he got left, is not handed down to our eclectic historian of Kekuanaoa street, was the first to reach the boat landing at Lough Neagh. He took the boat "Dr. Winslow," but O'Neill in "Fair Play" was hot in his wake. Charley Wilson was just going to fire his popgun for the victory of the O'Neill's antagonist as he touched the line, when the "Red" O'Neill drew his sword and chopping off his left hand threw the bloody member across the reef. "The O'Neill's hand first touching land," it is recorded, "made him owner of the magnificent property for which the heirs are now striving." It is not a bad yarn as it goes, but the present writer feels like repining at the providence that didn't make him an heir of "Red" O'Neill. The seventeenth of March and the twelfth of July ought to be equally good days for those chancery beneficiaries.

BEST MEN HOLD.

Professor Bryce, in his great work, "The American Commonwealth," among the few faults found with the great Republic's institutions, mentions the rule that representatives in Congress must belong to the districts that they represent. The evil the author sees in this is that the country at large is deprived, through fickle local public opinion, of the services of able statesmen who happen to be left at home at elections. Still it is seen that eminent publicists in the United States generally keep on top and in the front. With all the pessimistic views of the practical intelligence of the average constituency, the free and independent electors seem to know a thoroughly able man when they see him. In free representative institutions the ablest men are not usually relegated to obscurity in the midst of their usefulness. In the banner province of Canada, Oliver Mowatt, Liberal, has been Premier now for a quarter of a century or more, although Ontario in federal politics has gone Conservative at most Dominion elections. His administration has the unique record of keeping his commonwealth without a particle of debt, a surplus being the invariable feature of its financial statement. Now this provincial "grand old man" is to have his reward in being promoted to a seat in the national cabinet. The little province of Nova Scotia, which until the recent Dominion election has been strongly Conservative, has yet for many quadrennial periods maintained the Liberal ministry of Mr. Fielding in power in provincial affairs. He has been able and honest, and that is the whole secret. Mr. Fielding's career is much like those of some of the most honored products of American institutions. He began life as an office boy for the leading newspaper of his country. When scarcely out of his teens he was an editor of that paper, and now he has represented for several terms in the local legislature the largest county of the province, which cannot elect an entire ticket of his party to the federal parliament, and has been the provincial premier at the same time. The body politic in countries with free institutions is after all, in its judgment of men and measures, both intelligent and discriminating.

Canada has adopted a form of ballot, on which there is a heavy black border with white discs for the X to mark the elector's choice. This might be supposed to be plain enough for the most stupid of the "free and independent." Yet on a recount in Toronto, the second city of the Dominion, some of the protested ballots were marked outside of the discs. The court allowed these ballots on both sides, and McLean, a newspaper man and a Conservative, was declared elected by a majority of three.

British Columbia elected four Liberals out of the six representatives to which it is entitled in parliament. Everyone of them wanted to be the representative of the province in the Cabinet, and Mr. Laurier, the leader of the party, cut the Gordian knot by leaving the whole raft of them in the stream. Hawaii knows what it is to suffer from the ministerial "bee in the bonnet" of every tuppenny-hapenny politician. That is what produced the confusion that ended in the revolution of 1893.

Political news by the Altmore indicates that silver would control the Democratic convention, so completely that the whole business would likely be dispatched in a day. It is just as well that the nation should have a square fight on the currency question.

REFRIGERATING MACHINES AND CREAM SEPARATORS.

Now that the Fourth of July celebration is over and people are settling down to business again, we desire to call the attention of the residents of the Hawaiian Islands to a few matters of interest.

We have lately been appointed sole agents for BARBER'S REFRIGERATING MACHINES.

This machine can readily be arranged in creameries, etc., so as to cool cream, milk and water to any desired temperature down to and below freezing, as also to hold a well-insulated butter-room at any temperature desired above 30 degrees, only requiring the running of the machine from four to six hours per day, which is the usual time that the other machinery in a creamery is operated.

In addition to creameries, these machines are also adapted for use in produce houses, meat markets, hotels, club houses, etc. Their perfect work has been demonstrated fully in the past two years in a large number of creameries in different portions of the East, and more particularly in the Elgin, Ill., district, as well as in butter houses in Chicago, New Orleans, and elsewhere.

The cost of operation is nominal, as the charge of ammonia furnished with the plant should last a year or more without recharging, and will cost only about $15.00.

The DE LAVAL CREAM SEPARATORS are now in almost universal creamery or factory use the world over, and in the past few years the Dairy or "Baby" sizes of these machines have almost as completely revolutionized general dairying as had the larger machines previously the creamery industry.

The De Laval Company now presents to the public a smaller type of its latest and most improved "Alpha" machines intended for household and small dairy use, and designed to confer in its new field the same inestimable benefits of centrifugal separation of cream from milk as have the larger machines in their respective spheres.

No more fitting and descriptive term could well be applied to this little machine than the name which has been so aptly given it,—the "Humming-Bird." It is very small, very compact, extremely simple, easily understood and cared for, safe and durable. It possesses every advantage to be found in any of the larger "Alpha" machines, is so extremely easy of operation by reason of its new method of obtaining motion as to be designed mainly for use by women and children, and is absolutely thorough in its effectiveness. It need simply be said that it fulfills every requirement of its purpose.

DECEPTION.

A man who had something to sell and who by honest representation lost the sale, would, according to the deplorable standard of today, lack an essential in the make-up of a salesman.

There is but one sure way to guard against misrepresentation in business: it is to supply an article of such merit that its superior qualities leave nothing to be desired. The truth more adequately describes such an article than a lie could possibly do.

To put inferior goods into the hands of a salesman whose living is contingent on their sale, is to lead that man into temptation. There is but one way to stop the sale of liquor and inferior merchandise, and that is to abolish their manufacture.

Put a ring around the word—opportunity—the occasion makes it. Never in the history of mercantile transactions in Honolulu have the people had such a golden opportunity to select a lamp as to-day. A manufacturer who had more than he knew what to do with, more than he had space to put them, wrote us of his troubles. We had none of our own so we listened to him. Our stock of lamps is the result of his tale of woe and you get the benefit.

A black lamp that will give a bright light is not a bad, but a style that will remain until "New Hawaii" shall become old. Being sombre in color they furnish with any decorations you may have in your room and any color shade that suits your fancy will look well on the lamp.

For a dinner table nothing furnishes the table better than black banquet lamps. We have them, not cumbersome, but of a height that will beautify rather than detract from the other features. We have piano lamps, hall lamps, boudoir lamps and every other character of lamp that ever was made. The prices are so low that it would injure our business to put them in this column.
